

Cindy Leibovitch was a former Vice President of Marketing at Clinton Group, a New York-based hedge fund. Prior to her 20-year career on Wall Street, Cindy graduated from the Pennsylvania State University with a BS in Finance. She is the co-founder of the Alisha C. Levin Memorial Fund, a family foundation which awards academic scholarships to exceptional students from her alma mater, Northeast High School. She is a founding member of Lincoln Center Kids, a new program at Lincoln Center making the arts accessible to children and their families and sits on their Steering Committee Executive Board. She also is on the Board of Directors of the Jewish Community Project (JCP), a non-profit organization and preschool serving the needs of the Jewish community in lower Manhattan.